THE UTICA INSTITUTE

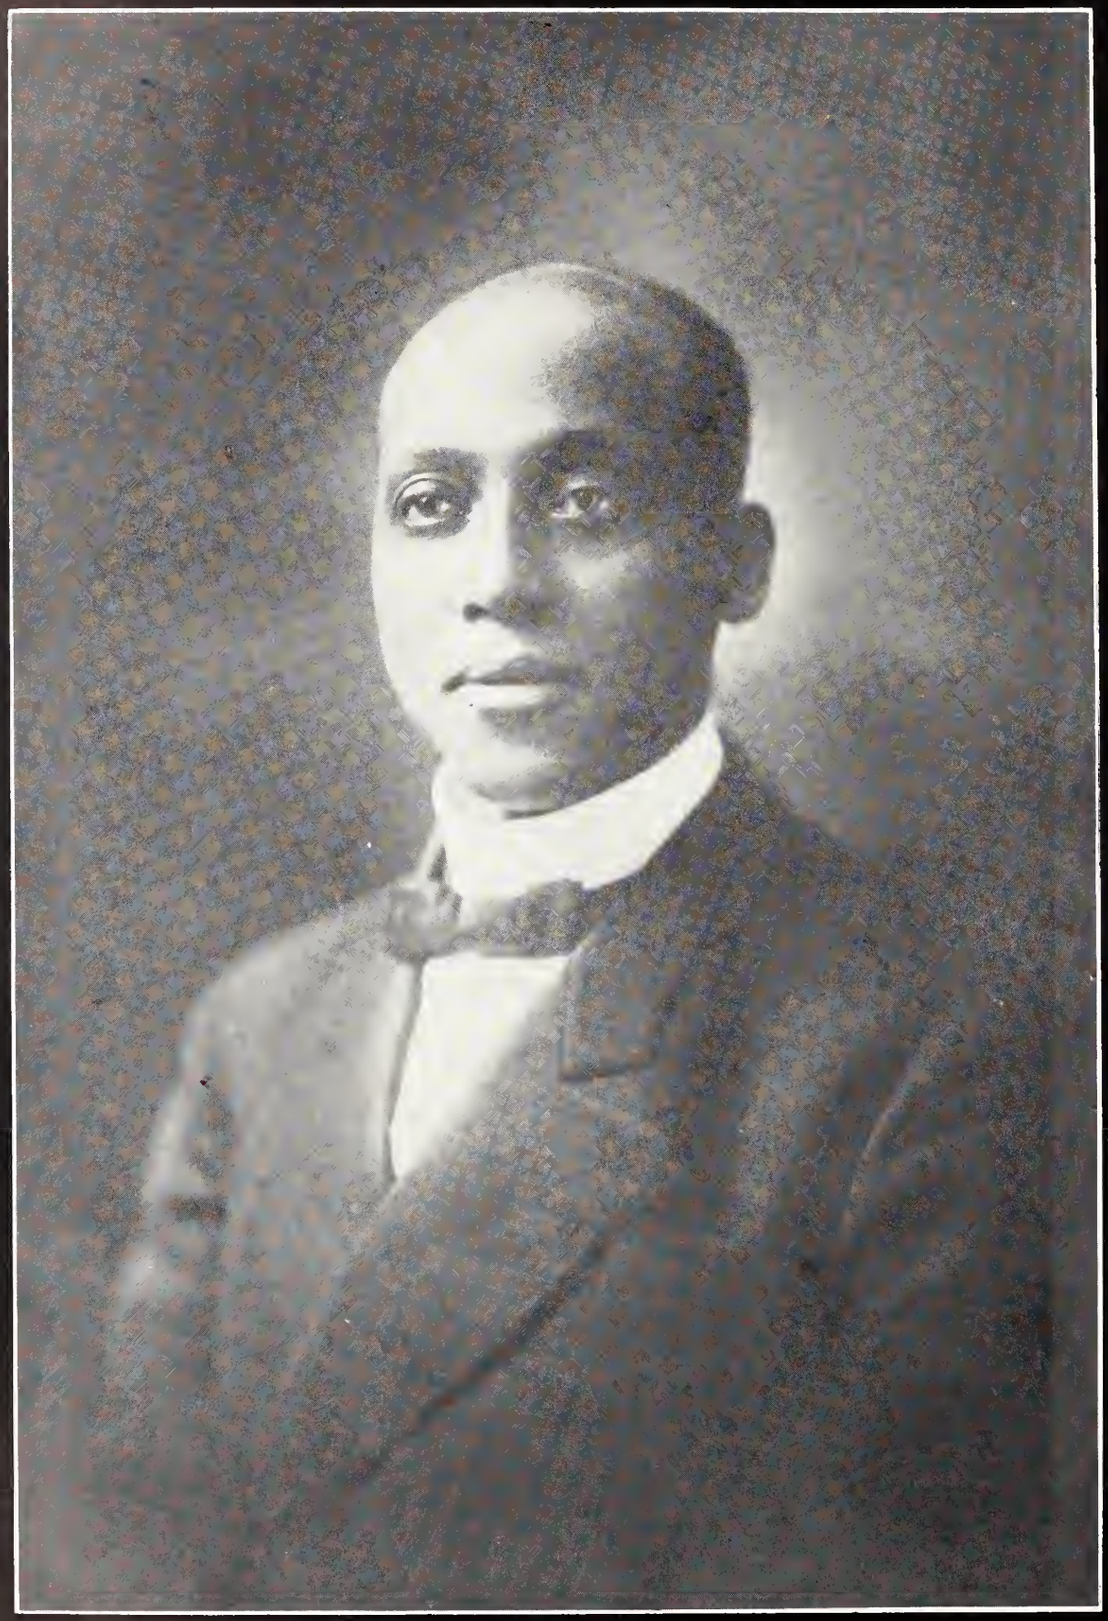
A Look at Our Past

Utica Junior College, located four miles southeast of the town of Utica, Mississippi amid towering pines and shrubbery, had its beginning in 1903 when the Utica Normal and Industrial Institute was no more than a one-building wood structure. The healthy climate and beautiful scenery make it an ideal location for training young minds.

For forty years this institution was supported by the generosity of friends and the genius of its founder.

In 1946 the school became the property of Hinds County.

In its continued pursuit for excellence the school again saw rapid growth in 1954 when the junior college was added to the site.



The Founder of the Institute

A Need Conceived by Our Founder

Returning to Utica, Mississippi after a period of study at Tuskegee Institute; the founders of Utica Normal and Industrial Institute, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Holtzclaw, Sr., established the school on the guiding principle of correlating both the literary and industrial training in order that the students might obtain both kinds of education and thus be better equipped for life's duties.

Ably Guided by Succeeding Administrators

Mr. William H. Holtzclaw, Jr., son of the founder, succeeded his father and ably carried on the work he had started. His administration was from 1943 through 1946.

Mr. J. D. Boyd became superintendent of Utica Institute in 1951 and served with his wife, Mrs. C. B. Boyd, as superintendent until 1954 when he organized the junior college and became its first president.

It was under President Boyd's leadership that the enrollment of the high school department was increased from three hundred to almost nine hundred students; the physcial plant was improved to the tune of approximately a million dollars; and the high school was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Mr. Boyd is now president of Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College.

In 1946, Mr. James W. Grantham became head of the school. He and his wife served until 1951. With efficiency and dedication he improved the curriculum, transportation, facilities, and staff of the school. He is now serving as Professor of Education at Grambling College.

Like other outstanding forerunners of Utica Junior College, Mr. Crantham will leave his "footprints in the sands of time" through his efforts to educate the masses.

After Sixty Years There is Evidence of

In this year 1965, at anniversary time when we celebrate ten years of endurance and progress as a junior college, it is opportune to note that while specific names and deeds are enshrouded in the midst of history, the dreams and goals of our founders remain constant as the college reaches out academically and socially to meet the needs of those coming within its walls.

Our Growth

Vocational–Technical Building

In Curricula Offered and Facilities Available

Utica Junior College is a two-year institution. It offers three basic programs: two years of general education which enables a student to transfer to a senior college to work toward a bachelor's degree; Vocational-Technical Program, upon the completion of which a student may go directly into employment; and Community Service in form of the Home Economics Department and Agricultural Department working with the farm families to improve rural living.

Courses offered in the Vocational Technical Program are: auto mechanics; barbering, cosmetology; drafting and design technology; electrical technology; building and construction technology; brickmasonry; and secretarial science.

The physical plant has constantly increased and is now valued at approximately one and a half million dollars.

The philosophy behind the growth of the curriculum and plant stems from the original idea of the founder which was to improve the quality of life of the people served by the school.

Enhanced by Dedicated Leadership . . .

In 1957 following the successful administration of President Boyd, Mr. Walter Washington was elected president of the school. President Washington came to Uitca Junior College in 1951 as principal under President Boyd. He served as the first dean of the college.

Since Mr. Washington became president, the college has continued its growth in buildings, curriculum, and staff. The financial support of the college has been greatly increased. Its transportation system has now expanded to three counties. Two additional counties, Copiah and Warren, have become a part of the college, making Utica Junior College the first district junior college of its kind in the State.

President Washington brings to his position extensive training and experience that have made his administration a success. He has served in many educational leadership positions beyond the college, among which was president of the Mississippi Teachers Association. President and Mrs. Washington have worked as a team during his tenure here.

A young leader, President Washington has a love for knowledge. Many persons employed at Utica Junior College have been inspired to search for greater knowledge because of his influence on them. The faculty and staff boast of the harmony with which it works because of President Washington's skillful management.

These Are Our Aspirations For The Future

As it prepares to meet the opportunities brought on by the space age, Utica Junior College endeavors to open many doors to the youth who come here seeking knowledge.

The immediate plans include erecting a student union building, science building, and a fine arts building.

January 12, 1965

Dear Students, Alumni, and Friends:

This year the Annual Staff has built the Uticanite around the history of the institution. A significant part of the history of the college is the role played by the persons who have served as head of the institution from its founder, Dr. William H. Holtzclaw. Whatever progress the college has made was made because it had great leaders in the past and their contributions, both individually and collectively, are the foundation upon which the school operates today. The buildings, the grounds, the students and the graduates all bear the mark of the past as they face the future.

As the institution prepares for greater service to the community, to the State and to the nation, it shall never cease to be aware that it can only give this service to the degree which it recognizes past contributions of teachers, students, and the past leaders of the college.

The Annual Staff is to be congratulated for the 1965 Uticanite.

Sincerely,

Walter Washington

The Deans

Dear friends:

Utica Junior College has an illustrious history which is being told in part through the publication of the UTICANITE each year. This year history-making at Utica Junior College is of no less significance than in former years. Those of us who will have the opportunity to see the UTICANITE this year can reflect back on the history of Utica and feel a sense of satisfaction for having played a part in making history. May these memories serve to inspire each of you to lofty heights.

We should like to say thanks to those who labored so hard to produce this very fine UTICANITE. May the joy and pleasure of those who read the UTICANITE afford you the satisfaction of a job well done.

Very truly yours,
ARTHUR H. KINNARD, JR.

Seniors

Yes, fellows, it's going to take hard, hard, work.

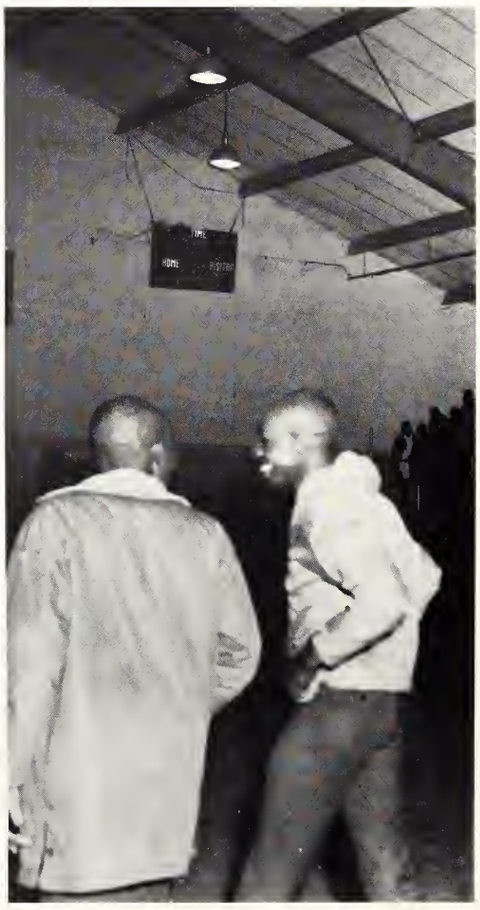
Posing in mid air.

Strain on my heart!

Getting ready for the big ones.

If he misses, the Magee kids will put it back where it belongs.

Time is running out for the visitors.



Boy, that was close!

Bell drives.

Holloway, the Jumping Jack

Lloyd Coats—Right in his eyes.

Luther Harris putting it home.

Ellis tips it in.

Features

Utica Junior College features some of the loveliest girls in our state. It features Miss Utica Junior College, our ideal gracious belle; Miss Homecoming, the incarnation of an industrious young lady; lovely and vivacious Miss May Day; and the five charming class queens. It also features the outstanding personalities of the campus and a selection of campus scenes.

Editor's Note:

Comparing the 1965 Uticanite with previous ones, we find it has taken on a new atmosphere. Emphasis is especially placed on the history of this institution. Actually, what we have exemplified here is our very rich lineage, which has continued even until today with our present administration.

It is our aim to produce an annual that will be a pictorial reminder of the days spent at Utica Junior College, and one which will give many hours of relaxation and fond recollections.

For making such a wonderful publication possible, we extend thanks to staff members, advisors, photographers, and the student body for their cooperation.
